

Title: Ofwat Bulk Water Pricing

Date: 2008 - 2009

Client: Office of Water Services (Ofwat), UK

Country/Region: UK

Working with the water regulator, a small CEPA team has been investigating the various bases on which bulk water is provided in England & Wales and the pricing systems associated with them – including inset appointments. This work has then been used to consider whether the different approaches are consistent with each other and meet general good practice with respect to bulk pricing. This work is linked to Ofwat's more general push for greater competition in the water sector, building on the Cave report as well as broader concerns about the lack of competition.
